

DISSEMINATION OF ERASMUS+ PROJECT “YOUNGSTERS NOWADAYS. WHERE FROM, WHERE TO” IN ASOPIA HIGH SCHOOL, GREECE

With the beginning of the new school year 2017, students of Asopia Junior and Senior High School were informed about the new Erasmus+ project our school will take part in “Youngsters Nowadays. Where from, where to”.

Students were shown a PPT presentation about the rationale of the project, the project activities, the partners and the LTT activities during the exchange visits. They expressed their questions and got answers and were asked to show interest in participating in the Project Group.

Parents were also informed about the project during a special meeting. Through a PPT presentation they were given all the necessary details, the work to be done, the profits their kids will have by participating in this project and they got answers to their questions and concerns.

Local authorities were also informed and expressed their will to help us when necessary. Regional education authorities, the pedagogic counselor as well as neighboring schools got aware of the Erasmus+ project, as well.

We also uploaded information about this Erasmus+ project on the school's website (<http://gym-asopias.voi.sch.gr/autosch/joomla15/>) and page in Facebook

(<https://www.facebook.com/gymasopi/notifications/>). The announcement was also made in public so that all our friends and contacts get aware of the project.

Students also prepared the Erasmus+ corner at school with the participant countries, maps, flags etc.

The Erasmus+ “Youngsters nowadays. Where from, where to?” student team.

We also created a short video presenting our school.
